

NON-PROFIT MANAGEMENT CERTIFICATE OF GRADUATE STUDIES

In RI alone, there are over 2,000 non-profit organizations including hospitals, schools, historic foundations, religious, environmental and social services. There is a growing need for management and administration in this area. People interested in management/administrative positions in non-profits such as healthcare, education, voluntary health and social welfare organizations (e.g., United Way, Red Cross, March of Dimes), and private not-for-profits (e.g., fraternal, professional, performing arts, environmental and cemetery organizations, animal rescue leagues, labor unions, museums, historic sites and libraries) will gain valuable contemporary skills. In addition, current non-profit professionals - even those with master's degrees - will broaden their perspectives to influence change.
